ORDER

Plaintiff, who is a prisoner in the custody of the Nevada Department of Corrections, originally filed this civil rights action pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 in state court on December 17, 2009. (Docket #1-2). Defendants removed the action to this court on March 5, 2010. (Docket #1.). The Court has screened plaintiff's civil rights complaint pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1915A and finds that it must be dismissed in part.

I. Screening Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1915A

Federal courts must conduct a preliminary screening in any case in which a prisoner seeks redress from a governmental entity or officer or employee of a governmental entity. See 28 U.S.C. § 1915A(a). In its review, the Court must identify any cognizable claims and dismiss any claims that are frivolous, malicious, fail to state a claim upon which relief may be granted or seek monetary relief from a defendant who is immune from such relief. See 28 U.S.C. § 1915A(b)(1),(2). Pro se pleadings, however, must be liberally construed. Balistreri v. Pacifica Police Dep't, 901 F.2d. 696, 699 (9th Cir. 1988). To state a claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, a plaintiff must allege two essential elements: (1) that of the United States was violated, and (2) that the alleged violation was committed 1 by a person acting under color of state law. See West v. Atkins, 487 U.S. 42, 48 (1988).

2 In addition to the screening requirements under § 1915A, pursuant to the Prison Litigation 3 Reform Act of 1995 (PLRA), a federal court must dismiss a prisoner's claim, "if the allegation of 4 poverty is untrue," or if the action "is frivolous or malicious, fails to state a claim on which relief 5 may be granted, or seeks monetary relief against a defendant who is immune from such relief." 28 6 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2). Dismissal of a complaint for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be 7 granted is provided for in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6), and the Court applies the same 8 standard under § 1915 when reviewing the adequacy of a complaint or an amended complaint.
 9 When a court dismisses a complaint under § 1915(e), the plaintiff should be given leave to amend 10 the complaint with directions as to curing its deficiencies, unless it is clear from the face of the 11 complaint that the deficiencies could not be cured by amendment. See Cato v. United States, 70 12 F.3d. 1103, 1106 (9th Cir. 1995).

13 Review under Rule 12(b)(6) is essentially a ruling on a question of law. See Chappel v.
 14 Laboratory Corp. of America, 232 F.3d 719, 723 (9th Cir. 2000). Dismissal for failure to state a 15 claim is proper only if it is clear that the plaintiff cannot prove any set of facts in support of the 16 claim that would entitle him or her to relief. See Morley v. Walker, 175 F.3d 756, 759 (9th Cir.
 17 1999). In making this determination, the Court takes as true all allegations of material fact stated in 18 the complaint, and the Court construes them in the light most favorable to the plaintiff. See 19 Warshaw v. Xoma Corp., 74 F.3d 955, 957 (9th Cir. 1996). Allegations of a pro se complainant are 20 held to less stringent standards than formal pleadings drafted by lawyers. See Hughes v. Rowe, 449
 21 U.S. 5, 9 (1980); Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519, 520 (1972) (per curiam). While the standard 22 under Rule 12(b)(6) does not require detailed factual allegations, a plaintiff must provide more than 23 mere labels and conclusions. Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 1964-65 (2007). A 24 formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action is insufficient. Id., see Papasan v. Allain, 25 478 U.S. 265, 286 (1986).

26 All or part of a complaint filed by a prisoner may therefore be dismissed sua sponte if the 27 prisoner's claims lack an arguable basis either in law or in fact. This includes claims based on legal 28 conclusions that are untenable (e.g., claims against defendants who are immune from suit or claims

1 of infringement of a legal interest which clearly does not exist), as well as claims based on fanciful
 2 factual allegations (e.g., fantastic or delusional scenarios). See Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. 319, 3 327-28 (1989); see also McKeever v. Block, 932 F.2d 795, 798 (9th Cir. 1991).

4 II. Screening of the Complaint

5 Plaintiff sues defendants E.K. McDaniel, Warden of Ely State Prison; Adam Endel, 6 Associate Warden of Ely State Prison; Thomas Prince, Lieutenant at Ely State Prison; Paul Hunt, 7 Sergeant at Ely State Prison; Ronald Bryant, Sergeant at Ely State Prison; Cameron Horsley, Senior 8 Corrections Officer at Ely State Prison; Curtis Rigney, Corrections Officer at Ely State Prison; and 9 Rick Rimington, Correctional Officer at Ely State Prison. Plaintiff alleges that he has been treated 10 differently than others in comparable circumstances and in violation of established policies. He 11 claims that he has suffered discrimination and retaliation and punishment for his religious and 12 political beliefs, and for pursuing his rights under the United States Constitution and the Nevada 13 State Constitution. Plaintiff further alleges that he has been denied due process and access to the 14 courts through the taking and destruction of vital legal documents and literature. Plaintiff seeks 15 monetary damages as well as injunctive and declaratory relief.

16 A. Defendants

17 The Civil Rights Act under which this action was filed provides:

18 Every person who, under color of [state law] . . . subjects, or causes 19 to be subjected, any citizen of the United States. . . to the deprivation 20 of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured by the Constitution. . . shall be liable to the party injured in an action at law, suit in equity, or other proper proceeding for redress. 42 U.S.C. § 1983.

21 The statute plainly requires that there be an actual connection or link between the actions of the 22 defendants and the deprivation alleged to have been suffered by plaintiff. See Monell v.
23 Department of Social Services, 436 U.S. 658 (1978); Rizzo v. Goode, 423 U.S. 362 (1976). The 24 Ninth Circuit has held that “[a] person ‘subjects’ another to the deprivation of a constitutional right, 25 within the meaning of section 1983, if he does an affirmative act, participates in another’s 26 affirmative acts or omits to perform an act which he is legally required to do that causes the 27 deprivation of which complaint is made.” Johnson v. Duffy, 588 F.2d 740, 743 (9th Cir. 1978).

28 Supervisory personnel are generally not liable under section 1983 for the actions of their

1 employees under a theory of respondeat superior and, therefore, when a named defendant holds a 2 supervisorial position, the causal link between him and the claimed constitutional violation must be 3 specifically alleged. See Fayle v. Stapley, 607 F.2d 858, 862 (9th Cir. 1979); Mosher v. Saalfeld, 4 589 F.2d 438, 441 (9th Cir. 1978), cert. denied, 442 U.S. 941 (1979). To show a prima facie case of 5 supervisory liability, plaintiff must allege facts indicating that supervisory defendants either: 6 personally participated in the alleged deprivation of constitutional rights; knew of the violations and 7 failed to act to prevent them; or promulgated or implemented “a policy so deficient that the policy 8 ‘itself is a repudiation of constitutional rights’ and is ‘the moving force of the constitutional 9 violation.’” Hansen v. Black, 885 F.2d 642, 646 (9th Cir. 1989) (quoting Thompkins v. Belt, 828 10 F.2d 298, 303-04 (5th Cir. 1987); Taylor v. List, 880 F.2d 1040, 1045 (9th Cir. 1989). Although 11 federal pleading standards are broad, some facts must be alleged to support claims under Section 12 1983. See Leatherman v. Tarrant County Narcotics Unit, 113 S.Ct. 1160, 1163 (1993).

B. General Statement Regarding Claims for Relief

14 In his general statement regarding his claims for relief, found at page 15 of the complaint at 15 number 47, plaintiff states that he seeks monetary damages, and declaratory and injunctive relief, for 16 defendants' discriminatory acts and retaliation against him for his religious and political beliefs.
 17 Plaintiff claims that because of his political and religious beliefs, defendants deprived him of his 18 personal property and destroyed some of his property without just compensation, upon his transfer to 19 Ely State Prison. Plaintiff also claims that because of his beliefs, defendants held him in an empty 20 cell in the freezing cold of winter, with no clothing beyond an orange jumpsuit and none of his legal, 21 religious or other property for thirteen days.

C. First Claim - First Amendment

23 In his first claim for relief, found at page 15 of the complaint at number 48, plaintiff 24 alleges that defendants violated his First Amendment rights when they intentionally deprived him of 25 his religious and other education literature and caused the destruction thereof. Plaintiff claims that 26 defendants had no purpose other than to retaliate against and punish him for his religious and 27 political beliefs. In the body of the complaint, plaintiff alleges in detail the events which occurred 28 upon his transfer to Ely State Prison, including multiple searches of his property by different prison

1 employees and the unauthorized removal of various items.

2 To establish a prima facie case of retaliation for the exercising of a constitutional right, 3 plaintiff must allege and show that defendants acted to retaliate for his exercise of a protected 4 activity, and defendants' actions did not serve a legitimate penological purpose. See Barnett v.
 5 Centoni, 31 F.3d 813, 816 (9th Cir. 1994); Pratt v. Rowland, 65 F.3d 802, 807 (9th Cir. 1995). A 6 plaintiff asserting a retaliation claim must demonstrate a "but-for" causal nexus between the alleged 7 retaliation and plaintiff's protected activity (i.e., filing a legal action). McDonald v. Hall, 610 F.2d 8 16, 18 (1st Cir. 1979); see Mt. Healthy City School Dist. Bd. of Educ. v. Doyle, 429 U.S. 274 (1977).
 9 The prisoner must submit evidence, either direct or circumstantial, to establish a link between the 10 exercise of constitutional rights and the allegedly retaliatory action. Pratt, 65 F.3d at 806. Timing 11 of the events surrounding the alleged retaliation may constitute circumstantial evidence of retaliatory 12 intent. See Soranno's Gasco, Inc. v. Morgan, 874 F.2d 1310, 1316 (9th Cir. 1989). The court finds 13 that under the facts alleged in the complaint regarding the discriminatory treatment he received 14 based on his religious and political beliefs, the court finds that plaintiff has stated a colorable First 15 Amendment retaliation claim.

16 D. Second Claim - Fourth Amendment

17 In his second claim, found on page 16 at number 49, plaintiff alleges that defendants 18 deprived him of his rights under the Fourth Amendment by subjecting him to excessive search and 19 seizure, and to destruction of his property without just cause or compensation. Plaintiff also claims 20 that defendants violated his Fourth Amendment rights by failing to follow administrative rules and 21 procedures.

22 The Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution establishes in part "[t]he right of 23 the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches 24 and seizures." An inmate ordinarily has no reasonable expectation of privacy to his jail cell or his 25 possessions within it. Hudson v. Palmer, 468 U.S. 517, 525-26 (1984). Moreover, after the 26 Supreme Court decision in Sandin v. Connor, 515 U.S. 472, 485-86 (1995), a jail official cannot be 27 liable for inspecting an inmate's legal materials outside his presence, even where a jail's regulations 28 prohibit it, because such conduct is "simply not a dramatic departure from the basic conditions of 1 incarceration." Mitchell v. Dupnik, 75 F.3d 517, 522 (1996). Further, the Fourth Amendment 2 provides no protection from takings without just compensation and has no application to the failure 3 of state authorities to follow administrative rules and procedures. The court finds, therefore, that the 4 allegations in the second claim fail to state a colorable Fourth Amendment claim. The court will 5 therefore dismiss plaintiff's second claim for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be 6 granted.

7 E. Third Claim - Fifth Amendment

8 In his third claim, found on page 16 at number 50, plaintiff claims that defendants violated 9 his rights under the Fifth Amendment by intentionally and maliciously punishing him and depriving 10 him of his property through malicious misuse of prison disciplinary process, each without just cause 11 or compensation. The just compensation clause of the Fifth Amendment applies to takings for 12 public use, and generally refers to takings of land. Plaintiff has not alleged that his personal 13 property was taken for public use. Thus, the just compensation clause has no application to this 14 plaintiff's complaint. Further, claims of deprivation by state authorities of life, liberty or property 15 without due process of law arise under the Fourteenth Amendment. Thus, plaintiff's third claim, 16 based on the Fifth Amendment, will be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief can 17 be granted.

18 F. Fourth Claim - Eighth Amendment

19 Plaintiff's fourth claim, found on page 16 at number 51, alleges that defendants subjected 20 plaintiff to cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the Eighth Amendment by failing to follow 21 administrative rules, by placing him in a cold cell with no property for thirteen days, by intentionally 22 causing the destruction of his religious, legal and other property, and subjecting him to threats, 23 retaliation and punishments for his religious and political beliefs

24 Plaintiff's allegations regarding defendants' failure to follow administrative procedures and 25 intentional destruction of property sound in due process and do not state an Eight Amendment claim.

26 Plaintiff alleges that defendants subjected him to cruel and unusual punishment by holding 27 him in a freezing cold, empty cell in the middle of winter, with no clothing other than an orange 28 jumpsuit and none of his personal property, for thirteen days.

To constitute cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the Eighth Amendment, prison conditions must involve “the wanton and unnecessary infliction of pain.” Rhodes v. Chapman, 452 U.S. 337, 347 (1981). Although prison conditions may be restrictive and harsh, prison officials must provide prisoners with food, clothing, shelter, sanitation, medical care, and personal safety. Id.; Toussaint v. McCarthy, 801 F.2d 1080, 1107 (9th Cir. 1986); Hoptowit v. Ray, 682 F.2d 1237, 1246 (9th Cir. 1982). Under the facts alleged, plaintiff has stated a colorable claim under the Eighth Amendment for being kept in inhumane conditions.

Plaintiff’s retaliation claim is duplicative of that stated in his second claim, and mere verbal harassment or abuse is not sufficient to state a constitutional deprivation under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Oltarzewski v. Ruggiero, 830 F.2d 136, 139 (9th Cir. 1987).

The court concludes that plaintiff’s fourth claim states a colorable Eighth Amendment claim based on plaintiff’s allegations regarding being placed in a freezing cold, empty cell in the middle of winter, with no clothing other than an orange jumpsuit and none of his personal property, for thirteen days.

G. Fifth Claim - Fourteenth Amendment

Plaintiff’s fifth claim, found on pages 16 and 17 at number 52, alleges that defendants were deliberately indifferent to and violated his Fourteenth Amendment rights to equal protection and due process. He claims that defendants conspired to discriminate against him and punish him for his political and religious beliefs by depriving him of his personal property and causing the destruction thereof, by misuse of the disciplinary process, by housing him in a freezing cold cell without property for thirteen days, and by failing to enforce or follow established rules and regulations.

The Fourteenth Amendment provides in part, “nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.” As discussed above, plaintiff’s claims regarding punishment and being placed in a cold cell for thirteen days fall within the Eighth Amendment prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment. They do not state a claim under the Fourteenth Amendment.

Equal protection claims arise when a charge is made that similarly situated individuals are treated differently without a rational relationship to a legitimate state purpose. See San Antonio

1 School District v. Rodriguez, 411 U.S. 1 (1972). In order to state a § 1983 claim based on a 2 violation of the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, a plaintiff must allege that 3 defendants acted with intentional discrimination against plaintiff. Lowe v. City of Monrovia, 775
 4 F.2d 998, 1010 (9th Cir. 1985); Federal Deposit Ins. Corp. v. Henderson, 940 F.2d 465, 471 (9th 5 Cir. 1991). The court finds that in this case, by claiming that he has suffered deprivation of personal 6 property without due process because of his religious and political beliefs, plaintiff has stated a 7 colorable equal protection claim under the Fourteenth Amendment.

8 In order to state a cause of action for deprivation of procedural due process, a plaintiff must 9 first establish the existence of a liberty interest for which the protection is sought. In Sandin v.
 10 Connor, 515 U.S. 472, 487 (1995), the Supreme Court abandoned earlier case law which had held 11 that states created protectable liberty interests by way of mandatory language in prison regulations.
 12 Id. Instead, the Court adopted an approach in which the existence of a liberty interest is determined 13 by focusing on the nature of the deprivation. Id. In doing so, the Court held that liberty interests 14 created by prison regulations are limited to freedom from restraint which "imposes atypical and 15 significant hardship on the inmate in relation to the ordinary incidents of prison life." Id. at 484.

16 Where a protected liberty interest exists, the Supreme Court has set out the following 17 procedural due process requirements for disciplinary detention of a prisoner: (1) written notice of the 18 charges; (2) at least 24 hours between the time the prisoner receives written notice and the time of 19 the hearing, so that the prisoner may prepare his defense; (3) a written statement by the fact finders 20 of the evidence they rely on and reasons for taking disciplinary action; (4) the right of the prisoner to 21 call witnesses in his defense, when permitting him to do so would not be unduly hazardous to 22 institutional safety or correctional goals; (5) legal assistance to the prisoner where the prisoner is 23 illiterate or the issues presented are legally complex. Wolff v. McDonnell, 418 U.S. 539, 556 (1974).

24 Under Sandin, plaintiff's bare allegations that defendants failed to follow established rules, 25 procedures, and regulations do not state a due process claim. In regard to his due process claim 26 related to the disciplinary proceeding, plaintiff alleges that he was not allowed to present evidence in 27 his defense. For example, he states that he was not allowed to present evidence that would have 28 shown that the documents taken were religious and educational in nature, properly obtained and

1 within all existing rules and regulations, and available for check out in the Ely State Prison library.
2 The court finds that under the facts alleged, plaintiff states a colorable Fourteen Amendment due 3 process claim in connection with his disciplinary hearing.

4 Plaintiff alleges that his personal property were destroyed by defendants who are employees
5 at Ely State Prison. In Hudson v. Palmer, the United States Supreme Court held that intentional
6 deprivation of an inmate's property by prison employees does not violate the Due Process Clause, 7 provided that adequate state post-deprivation remedies are available. 468 U.S. 517, 533-534 (1984).
8 Nevada law provides for civil actions for the wrongful deprivation of property by state officials. See 9 NRS 41.031; NRS 41.0322.¹ Plaintiff may seek redress in the state system, but he cannot sue in 10 federal court on the claim that the state deprived him of property without due process of the law.

12 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that the Clerk of the Court shall FILE the complaint.
